

Complementary graphs

Since we have the data all nice and ready in a DF, we created some graphs for researchers to look for patterns that interest them, and give them directions for further research.

The following graphs are The error-profile matrices for various languages, sliced by proficiency level. Rows are normalized.(Every cell is divided by the row sum.) :

